

3 DECEMBER 2020

Research Software Developers Day

SUMMARY

This is a day for research software and research software engineers. Today we gather together to make our software better, more reliable, more trustworthy, but most of all, to share our vast collective experience. Join our community for an exciting day of talks and workshops to discuss the challenges you face and the bugs you chase.

If you have something to say we kindly request you to submit a talk or workshop proposal via the contact information below. If you miss out, or if you just want to quickly highlight an idea, you'll have an opportunity to give a lightning talk on the day.
